

DEATHS MAY REACH OVER 1000 GREAT FLOOD IN WEST VIRGINIA

SURPRISED VICTIMS DID NOT GET ANY POSSIBLE CHANCE TO ESCAPE

People in the Coal Miners' Cabins Are Trapped
Like Rats and Drowned.

PROPERTY LOSS WILL REACH MILLIONS

Passengers Rescued from Flooded Trains by Means of Ropes—Hundreds of Dead Bodies Among the Debris—Miles of Railway Ruined.

Huntington, W. Va., June 24.—A late report received here says Elkhorn, Cooper and Keystone were completely washed away and probably a thousand lives are lost.

Roanoke, Va., June 24.—Some of the survivors of the flood in the Elkhorn Valley reached here this morning. They think the loss is underestimated and that it will reach over one thousand.

Huntington, W. Va., June 24.—Governor White has just arrived from Charleston and says that the death toll will be enormous. It may reach two thousand. The governor is endeavoring to get a relief train to the stricken district.

Roanoke, Va., June 24.—The news from the flooded district indicates that there is grave danger of lawlessness following on the heels of want and waste. The negroes are a disturbing element. The whites are organizing and the word has gone forth that the negroes must either work or leave the district. The negroes are ugly and the whites are determined and a clash may occur at any moment. The state militia have been ordered out.

Kenova, W. Va., June 24.—Only meager news is received here from the Southern West Virginia district regarding the cloudburst as all the telegraph communication is still completely cut off.

The loss of the flood so far as known this morning can be summed up as follows: Loss of life variously estimated from five to one thousand. Thirty miles of railway track gone, two hundred miles useless for any purpose. Scores of coal plants damaged and put out of operation for weeks. Hundreds of cars swept away by the torrent. Twenty-five bridges, perhaps more, missing. Sixty miles of territory from Vivian to Williamson swept by flood and from which not one word has come as to the safety of the people and the fate of its prosperous towns and villages.

Troops to Guard Property.
Charleston, W. Va., June 24.—Troops are being sent to the storm swept district to guard property. The latest reports are that Welch, the county seat of McDowell county, is a severe sufferer and many lives were lost there.

Communication Snafu Off
Bluefield, W. Va., June 24.—Communication is entirely shut off west of Elkhorn making it impossible to learn the full extent of the loss of life and property by the flood. The officials of the coal operators in the stricken district have sent messengers to Elkhorn with a report that a conservative estimate of the loss of life is two hundred, some of the drowned being among the most prominent citizens in the coal fields. The towns of Keystone and Vivian are the greatest sufferers. Keystone is located in a valley about two hundred yards wide. The entire force of the flood swept against the most thickly settled portion of the town before the terror stricken people realized their danger.

On the Clinch Valley division of New River between this city and Newton, Va., communication is entirely severed.

Reports come of a great loss of life and property in that section. Elkhorn Valley Devastated.

The scene of the worst part of the flood was the valley of the Elkhorn, in McDowell county, in the southwestern part of West Virginia. Another valley to the south of this one along the Clinch River also suffered, but not so severely.

Elkhorn creek flows between two mountain ridges, Indian Ridge to the north, and Big Stone Ridge to the south. In some places it is not over a quarter of a mile wide, and the hill rises precipitously from the bank of the stream, along which ran the track of the Norfolk and Western railroad.

Over the high valley when the atmosphere was heated to a high degree the winds brought clouds saturated with moisture. The fall of rain that resulted was tremendous. The swollen mountain streams all poured their water into the Elkhorn and the valley was swelled by it.

Scene of Great Destruction
The region of the worst destruction stretches from Welch, the county seat on the west to Coaldale on the east, a distance of about twenty miles. Of the towns between, Keystone a place of 2,000 inhabitants, is reported to have suffered the most. The death list there is reported to mount up toward 200.

There were 35 saloons in that town and only one of them is left standing, it being located high on the hillside. The rumor it that it is the only building in the town left standing. Vivian, the next largest town is also reported to have been wiped out of existence.

Many Miners Have Perished
In both of these towns the miners had assembled with their Saturday night's pay. They cannot have got back into their mountain huts and must have shared the fate of the inhabitants.

The railroad company started men on foot to walk along the hillside to survey the condition of the line. A trainmaster, who walked the twelve miles between Vivian and North Fork counted thirty-eight dead bodies floating on the surface.

That is an indication of what may be expected when full information is obtained.

HUNDREDS DEAD IN A FLOOD

Mining Towns in West Virginia Entirely Wiped Out

Bluefield, W. Va., June 24.—The destruction of several towns, with a loss of life estimated at more than 500, was caused by a cloudburst that swept down last night upon the Pocahontas mining region. For 200 miles along the Elkhorn basin from Bluefields to Kenova the floods caused devastation, but the great death list was rolled up in a twenty-five mile stretch just east of Vivian, and there, too, the ruin was greatest. The flooded basin became a gigantic death trap. Populous towns dotted the narrow valley along the Norfolk and Western road in the Pocahontas and Flatop fields and at least five or six of these are wiped out. Elkhorn creek and the Tug river, raging high over their banks, gorged the 300 yards wide valley and caught hundreds of inhabitants before they could flee to higher points. Fragmentary details indicate that Keystone, Welch, Coaldale and several other towns have been destroyed. A number of freight trains on the Norfolk and Western railroad were washed away and many trainmen lost their lives. Thirty miles of the railroad was ruined and hundreds of cars smashed and borne off on the rushing waters. Communication from Bluefields for 125 miles east is broken off and details of the disaster are being brought by courier. In the Elkhorn valley it is estimated the loss of the railroad and coal interests will exceed $2,000,000.

Rivals Johnstown and Galveston.
All the meager reports describing the force of the storm at Keystone make it appear that the damage rivals that of Johnstown and is equal to the Galveston horror in its intensity, so far as the percentage of population lost and property destroyed. It is said by the telegraph officials that the lines are useless between Kenova, W. Va., and Bluefield, a distance of 200 miles. It may be several days before the telegraph lines will be restored sufficiently between these points to obtain a full report of damage done in that territory. It is stated, however, that every building in the town of Keystone was demolished or carried away by the water save one, and that a barroom, which stands on a high hill, it is estimated stands on a high hill. The normal population of Keystone is about 2,000 souls, and as last night was Saturday night there is no telling how many miners had gone into town to swell its population. It is estimated that 200 lives alone were lost at Keystone. The flood seems to have extended over a vast area of mountain country and the hundreds of mountain streams, becoming swollen, only served to swell the Elkhorn river until it had assumed large proportions and carried destruction in its wake. Railroad ties and tracks, small buildings of all descriptions, trees, telegraph poles, huge boulders and every imaginable movable thing that came within the sweep of this mighty torrent of maddened waters went down the mountainous district in a seething, roaring mass of debris. Dead bodies could be seen floating along the valley by those who had gained a place of safety on the high hills. All day Saturday the rain fell in sheets and it was evident that if it did not cease there would be a flood and great destruction must result from it, but it was not until after darkness had enveloped the coal regions that the great catastrophe was upon the country and was making a clean sweep of the valley for miles around.

The little town of Keystone, with a population of about 2,000, is the principal one in the Pocahontas coal fields and is located near its center. It was to a great extent headquarters from which the mining population purchased supplies and was also the only place in the field where whisky could be purchased. At this place were forty or forty-five saloons, all of which were washed away. The report comes that the mining population are now occupying the banks of the streams below, catching the merchandise and barrels of whisky and beer as they float down.

A great number of the coal and coke plants throughout the Pocahontas district are reported practically destroyed, and are in some instances entirely washed away. From the best information obtainable the loss of property will easily reach $2,000,000. At Landgraf, the beautiful home of General Manager Ord is reported gone, but his family is said to be safe.

Passenger Train Meets Flood.
Passenger train No. 4 of the Norfolk and Western railway reached Vivian about 8:30 a. m., met the flood and was unable to proceed further. The water reached such a depth that the coaches had to be abandoned, the passengers being rescued by means of ropes strung from the windows of coaches to the tops of remaining coke ovens some distance away. Between Elkhorn and Vivian yard 100 cars are said to be washed from the tracks and many of them were carried down the streams. A rough estimate places the number of bridges washed away between Bluefield and Vivian yard, a distance of twenty-eight miles, at from fifteen to twenty, and from present indications it will be impossible to get relief into the stricken district, and with those who escaped with their lives, homeless and without food, indescribable suffering is inevitable.

Four Killed Near Pittsburgh.
Pittsburgh, June 24.—The storm that broke over Allegheny county yesterday afternoon carried with it death by drowning and death by electric shock, floods that caused much damage and floods that created terror and havoc. The dead are Charles Bittner, farmer, drowned in Spring Garden run; Mosco Maroca, Italian laborer, drowned in a sewer; James P. Dunn, aged 12 years, of Braddock, drowned in two feet of water at Rankin; Conrad Hart, aged 12 years, of Duquesne, killed by a live wire.

Hayes of Storm in Illinois.
Lyndon, Ill., June 24.—Damage estimated at hundreds of thousands of dollars was done by a tornado that swept across Logan county, unroofing public buildings, wrecking residences and business houses, laying low great tracts of grain and demolishing outbuildings of all sorts.

Thomas White is Caught in Beloit

Evansville Father Steals His Children from Wife, Who is Suing Him for Divorce.

Thomas White, an Evansville man, has been sued in the circuit court for a divorce by his wife on the ground of cruelty. Pending a decision the wife was given charge of the children. Yesterday White was given the privilege of visiting with the children and took them out for a walk. He had a team hitched a short distance out of Evansville. He put the children in the wagon and drove away. The kidnapping was soon discovered. In an accidental way it was learned that White had driven to Beloit where he was shortly afterward arrested by Marshall Appleby and the children sent home to their mother. He will have to answer to Judge Dunwiddie at the next term of court.

PRETTY SERVICE AT ROCK CO. ASYLUM

Local W. C. T. U. Conducted a Flower Mission—Inmates Were Very Much Interested.

There was a pretty service at the Rock county asylum yesterday afternoon, conducted by the ladies of the W. C. T. U. It was a flower mission service and each one of the inmates was presented with a large bouquet of beautiful roses, the flowers being very gratefully received. A carry-all load of twelve people and several people in private carriages from this city rode out to the asylum to participate in giving pleasure to those who make their home there. A short religious service was held in the chapel. Mrs. J. F. Poorman, president of the local W. C. T. U., having charge of the meeting. ### OLD WORLD AT ST. LOUIS FAIR

Foreign Governments Taking Great Interest in Exposition.

St. Louis, Mo., June 24.—The foreign relations and publicity committees of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition company held important sessions today. They are rapidly shaping the work of the great exposition. Foreign governments are already aroused to the importance of the fair.

A meeting of the press and publicity committee was attended in full. The chief topic of interest related to the work which will be done by Mr. Jose de Olivaras at Buffalo. The representatives of the Louisiana Purchase exposition company goes to Buffalo in a number of capacities. Not only will he take charge of the building which the company is having erected, but he will push the work of carrying information to foreign countries in the matter of press and publicity, as he will do with regard to foreign relations.

GOVERNMENT MAY WIPE OUT TRUSTS

If the Sherman Law Is Being Violated Courts Will Be Called On to Wind Up Octopuses.

GOVERNMENT MAY WIPE OUT TRUSTS

If the Sherman Law Is Being Violated Courts Will Be Called On to Wind Up Octopuses.

Washington, D. C., June 24.—An investigation to determine whether certain great corporate combinations are operating in contravention of the Sherman anti-trust law is being secretly made by the department of justice. It is ascertained that the statute has been and is being violated by the department can go into court with sufficient evidence to make a prima facie case action will be instituted to vitiate these combinations.

The trust question then would resolve itself into a paramount legal issue and be fought to a finish. Against the federal government would be arrayed vast aggregations of capital which go to make up the so-called octopuses.

Becoming secrecy is maintained by the department in the conduct of its investigation. This is not all surprising. On the contrary, it is exactly what should be expected. Just what trusts are being looked into is known only to the investigators. This, too, is not at all improper, inasmuch as obstacles would be placed in their way by the combinations concerned to perhaps the fatal disadvantage of the government.

M'KINLEY LIKED YOUNG HAY

Had Chosen Him to Be His Assistant Secretary

Washington, D. C., June 24.—Had Adelbert S. Hay lived until tomorrow announcement of his appointment as assistant secretary to the president of the United States would have been made from the White House. A vacancy in that office existed through the appointment of Major O. L. Pruden to be paymaster in the regular army.

It was as assistant secretary to President Lincoln that John Hay, the father first became identified with public affairs, and the desire of president McKinley to appoint his son to the same position pleased him greatly. The place had been offered to Adelbert Hay and he had accepted.

WOMEN URGED TO FROWN UPON SIN

Archbishop Ireland Sees Danger in Their Tolerance of Evil Society Is at Fault.

St. Paul, Minn., June 24.—Archbishop Ireland, in addressing the graduating class of St. John's college said:

"One of the great evils of the present time is that women in so-called high society are coming to regard with more and more toleration the breaches of moral and civic laws committed by members of their own sex. In our hurried modern life, when men are devoting themselves almost entirely to things material, women should preserve the moral and spiritual side of existence. If they do not the world may well fear."

The great fault of American education, the archbishop said, was the lack of seriousness. There was no depth of thought, no consistency of principles, an intellectual levity pervaded society. America, he thought, was decidedly inferior to other countries in intellectual culture. "I believe in the intellectual woman," continued the speaker, "while woman's interest should be primarily in the home, yet here is no reason why it should be confined there. It is folly to belittle woman's influence today, for it is widespread, and it is a power wherever it extends."

Their total value is reported at $105,150,338, an increase of $25,972,237 or 33 per cent over 1896.

Gen. Molinoux Is Hopeful.

New York, June 24.—Gen. Edward B. Molinoux has returned to his home in Brooklyn from Buffalo, where he attended the hearing before the Court of Appeals on the application for a new trial for his son, Roland B. Molinoux. In an interview he said: "From my own impressions, as well as from the views expressed by prominent lawyers who attended the hearing, I am led to believe that the powerful and logical presentation of Mr. Milburn of the legal objections to the manner in which my son's conviction was obtained, carried great weight with the judges of the court."

He expressed the belief that the Court of Appeals would grant a new trial for his son.

JOHN HAY CRUSHED WITH HIS GRIEF

Tragic Fate of His Son, Adelbert S., Throws a Pall Over New Haven, Conn.

New Haven, Conn., June 24.—Secretary of State Hay collapsed under the strain of fatigue and mental agony last evening as he stood by the remains of his son, Adelbert, whose dead body was found on the sidewalk in front of the New Haven Hotel at 2:30 o'clock yesterday morning.

The secretary was at once assisted to his bed and a physician summoned. An hour later his daughter, Miss Helen Hay arrived, and, although herself nearly prostrated by the news of her brother's sudden death, assumed the care of her father.

Early this morning Dr. Samuel D. Gilbert announced that the illness of the secretary of state was not serious; that it was occasioned by grief and fatigue, and that it would yield readily to mild treatment and sufficient rest.

The full details of the accident which resulted in the death of Adelbert Hay will never be known. It is only known that he fell from a window in the third story of the New Haven Hotel, in this city, shortly before 2:30 o'clock and that he was instantly killed.

The dead man was a graduate of Yale of the class of '98 and his death occurred on the eve of the university commencement, which brought him here yesterday and in which, by virtue of his class office, the young man would have been one of the leaders.

Mr. Hay had rooms at the New Haven House for commencement week. It is generally supposed, however, that after going to his room, he went to the window for air, and sitting on the sill, he dozed off and, overbalancing, fell to the pavement below—a distance of fully sixty feet.

SUMMER SERIES UNION SERVICES

CHANCE FOR LOCAL PASTORS TO GO ON A VACATION.

An Exchange of Pulpits—Dates Fixed for the Various Services—Sermon by the Rev. R. C. Denison at the Congregational Church Last Evening—Church News and Notes.

The effect of the hot weather is beginning to be felt at the churches especially at the evening services. As has been the custom for several years the Presbyterian, Congregational, Baptist and Methodist churches are arranging for a series of union services for Sunday evenings during the months of July and August. It is during these two months that the pastors take their summer vacations and that the majority of people who take summer outings are away from home. The following are the plans for the union evening services so far as they have been made.

July 7—at the Congregational church, Rev. R. M. Vaughan, preacher.

July 14—Presbyterian church, Rev. W. W. Woodside.

July 21—Baptist church, Rev. W. A. Hall.

July 28—Court Street M. E. church, Rev. R. M. Vaughan.

August 4—First M. E. church, Rev. R. C. Denison.

August 11—Baptist church, preacher to be announced.

August 18—Court Street M. E. church, preacher to be announced.

August 25—First M. E. church, Rev. J. T. Henderson.

Man of Many Promises

At the Congregational church last evening the Rev. R. C. Denison spoke of "The Man of Many Promises." His sermon centered in the incident in Peter's life when, after making repeated promises of faithfulness, he betrayed the Christ. There are some stories of Peter's life so full of courage that the reading of them gives people better courage to face life but this story makes the reader ashamed of Peter and of human nature and its weakness. The matter of making and keeping promises comes close to practical life but all around lies the alluring land of the imagination tempting people to enter. It is an easy land to get into and in it a man can do anything he wishes. The unknown laborer may be a prince and the lazy man finds as great a reward as the industrious one in the land of the imagination.

Close by the side of this land of dreams lies a similar one, the land of promises. This also is an easy land to enter. Many a man who has not the courage to face the duties and necessities of life gets rid of them by promises. When a man gets into the habit of promising instead of doing he comes to feel that he has discharged all obligations when he makes the promise.

The man that makes promises only to break them is one of the dangers that threatens a community. Every time a man makes a promise that he does not keep he loses a little from the foundation of his moral life. The habit of breaking promises saps man's moral strength. Not only to himself is his habit dangerous, but to his friends on whom he is a burden. How many great battles have failed simply because one man failed to keep his promise. Who shall tell how much anxiety he brings to other people who depend upon his word. The kingdom of God is pulled back and progress retarded by every broken promise.

It isn't only to men that the sorrow of broken promises comes. If man believes the Christian conception of God, he knows that it isn't possible for him to break a promise without bringing pain to the infinite heart. Some men say that if so much sorrow comes from broken promises, they will not make any. If they do not make them they will not break them. This may seem a safe way out of it at first but it is a childish, foolish, cowardly thing to avoid responsibility in this way. The man who never makes good promises to himself, to other men and to God is not worth much to the world. One cannot live in the world and enter into the human relations of business and of marriage without making promises.

The true way to avoid the sorrow of a broken promise is the simple way—hold a promise sacred. Every one respects a man who keeps his promise. People recognize something heroic in him. He represents human nature at its best. God makes great promises to his people and he has never broken one. Man must make his promises to God solemnly and sacredly. Having promised, his moral destiny depends on standing staunchly by his word. The man who keeps his promise will receive the reward of "Well done," from God.

At the evening service the congregation enjoyed a vocal solo by W. F. Rowell of Beloit and in the morning Miss Alice Fisher of Minneapolis, who is the guest of Miss Grace Bladen sang beautifully, "The Way of Peace" by Lloyd.

At the Baptist church the children's church, which was inaugurated by the late Rev. A. C. Kempton last summer was continued, being opened for the first time this year yesterday morning. The children's church is a unique idea, its object being to make it possible for mothers of little children to attend church. Ladies who are interested in the work volunteer each Sunday and take care of the little ones in the church parlors during the morning service.

The Baptist church pays a great deal of attention to its little people and a pretty feature of the children's day service a week ago was the presentation of a potted plant in full bloom to the younger children of the Sunday school. Nearly three hundred plants were distributed.

GLEASON'S OFFER FOR COUNTY FAIR

Prof. Gleason, the horse tamer, who has been giving such remarkable exhibitions, made an important announcement which should serve as an inducement to the people to interest themselves in holding a county fair in this city this fall. Prof. Gleason thinks it a shame that such splendid fair grounds and such a good race track should not be used for fair purposes and he offered, to come to Janesville and give exhibitions every afternoon bringing his own horses and paying his own expenses if the people will hold a fair. Prof. Gleason would certainly be a strong drawing card at a fair and his offer was a generous and unexpected one.

THREE HUNDRED VISITED OSHKOSH

Large Delegation from Here Made Merry Yesterday in the Saw Dust City.

Three hundred local residents spent yesterday in Oshkosh. Taking advantage of a $1.50 round trip rate offered by Excursion Agent C. H. Tinkham, the local delegation left on a special train of seven cars over the Chicago & Northwestern at 8 o'clock. The train consisted of excellent coaches and there was plenty of room for all. Fast time was made to Oshkosh the iron horse being in charge of Engineer Brazzel. James Niland and William Horne had charge of the train and both gentlemen did all in their power to make the trip one of pleasure. At Oshkosh the crowd was joined by several hundred excursionists 200 of whom were from Belvidere. A baseball game between Appleton and Oshkosh resulted in Appleton's favor the score being 10 to 6. Morris Crall of Janesville played first base for Oshkosh. Several hundred people visited Electric park. At seven o'clock sharp the special left Oshkosh reaching Janesville at 10:15. The day proved one of pleasure and Excursion Agent Tinkham can rest assured that the local delegation were highly pleased with the day's outing.

Defends Christian Science.

Editor Janesville Gazette:—In your issue of June 12th there appeared a notice of the death of Mrs. Horace W. Rose, under these headlines: "Faith Cure Kills a Beloit Woman; Mrs. Setta Rose Takes Dose of Poison, and Physicians Are Not Allowed to Attend Her Case."

The following statement has just been received from Mrs. May Rosenblatt of Beloit, Wisconsin, and I would ask that you kindly print the same to the credit of the church there. The following statement has just been received from Mrs. May Rosenblatt of Beloit, Wisconsin, and I would ask that you kindly print the same to the credit of the church there.

"There have so many false reports gone forth in regard to the case of our daughter, Mrs. Susetta Rose, that I wish the facts to be made known."

"She was brought home Sunday, June 9th, at four o'clock p. m., attended by two physicians, Dr. McCabe and Dr. Farr, also a lady, Miss Kerwin, who happened to be in the vicinity when found. One of the physicians, Dr. Farr, at once pronounced the case hopeless and dismissed it. Dr. McCabe retaining the case but remarking to a member of the family that 'she could not live until morning.' He remained until one o'clock a. m. Monday morning. Miss Kerwin being unable to remain longer with us, a friend was called in to assist in caring for her. Mrs. Rose showing signs of improvement. Dr. McCabe called and began preparing medicine, which she said she did not want to take. I was called into the room. Susetta said, 'I do not want to take it, it will do me no good.' I said, 'Here it is, ready. Don't you think you had better take it?'"

"Then she refused again saying she wanted Christian Science. I said, 'You see her choice and I cannot compel her to take the medicine.' Dr. McCabe remarked, 'I do not want to force her to take it.' This was her own wish and decision, without Christian Science being mentioned to her, and without any influence being used by anyone. The doctor then withdrew. She improved throughout the day under Christian Science treatment, eating, drinking and walking around her room. She passed away on Monday night to all appearances quietly sleeping.

"I might add that Mrs. Rose had threatened self destruction for the past twelve years, as was known to all of the members of the family. She has also been in several of the best sanitariums and been dismissed, pronounced incurable. After the death of her husband, returning to our home, my being a student of Christian Science, she naturally came to me for help; and as was remarked by one of the members of the family, as well as herself, Christian Science alone afforded her the only respite, as members of the family can testify. And it was a constant remark, how happy she was in her new faith, Christian Science." "Beloit, Wis., (Signed) "Mrs. May Rosenblatt." Very truly yours,

FRANCIS G. UNDERWOOD.

Mrs. Ben Carle stepped into the Chicago & Northwestern passenger depot recently and purchased some postage stamps. She stamped her letters, mailed them on the train and then missed her pocket book. It contained ten dollars and some odd change and also a card on which was her name and address. Under the circumstances it hardly looks as if Mrs. Carle will be gladdened by the return of her property.

TOBACCO ACTIVE IN BADGER STATE

Rarely, or never, in the history of tobacco growing in this state, has it been more active and healthy than at present.

The crop of 1900, the largest ever grown in the state, 31,778 acres, has been almost entirely bought from the farmers. About 20 per cent of the 1900 crop was damaged in the barns, but a large percentage of the remainder brought a fairly good price estimated at about $2,500,000.

The general excellence of the crop attracted the attention of large manufacturers and jobbers of the east, and they have been purchasing the packings of the small state packers until 50 per cent of the crop is in the hands of a half dozen of the large manufacturers of the east, and they are still picking up what they can reach at a fairly good profit to the packer.

While the conditions were unfavorable for the crop while hanging in the barns, the conditions since the tobacco has been packed in the cases have been favorable in the extreme, and the prospects now, after the first stages of the sweating process, have passed, are bright, for one of the cleanest and most desirable crops ever grown in the state. The leaf is thin in texture, a bright, desirable cinnamon color and neutral in flavor. The thin texture makes it profitable to the manufacturer as a pound will cover more cigars than the average leaf; the color appeals to the eye and makes it a favorite, while the neutral flavor makes it desirable for the cigar maker, as it can be used with the finest Havana filler without antagonizing the delicate flavor of the latter.

The remarkable activity of the cigar manufacturing industry throughout the United States has eaten large holes in the usually large stocks of the larger jobbers of the eastern and other principal markets, and no large surplus menaces a healthy demand for the coming crop of 1901.

The crop of 1901 starts out under a trifle less favorable circumstances than many former crops, as the spring has been cold and backward, but the plants are plentiful and in good condition, barring lateness. Transplanting is just well begun and is being rushed to completion.

The acreage in the state will approach and possibly exceed 35,000 acres, the largest number ever grown in any cigar leaf growing state in the union.

Prof. Gleason's Horse Show. The crowd that attended Prof. Gleason's horse show at the Fair Grounds on Saturday night were badly disappointed by the non-appearance of Prof. Gleason, who is the whole show. He went to Chicago on the morning train Saturday to see the Derby and expected to be home in time for the evening's entertainment. An accident on the 7:15 delayed the vestibule so that the professor did not arrive until almost eleven o'clock when it was too late for him to do anything at the show. Dr. Andrus tried to subdue a broncho and some other horses but his strength was not equal to the task so that he had to abandon the job. Prof. Gleason will give exhibitions at the grounds tonight, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

KING'S. A sample fender was placed on one of the street cars yesterday afternoon to see if it could be used on this system, on account of grades and depressions a peculiar kind of fender is necessary.

It was found to be impracticable on a steep grade where there was any depression like a railroad crossing as it dives into the ground when the hind end is elevated in crossing the tracks.

At Carpenter's coal yard on North Academy street where the railroad track crosses the road the fender got caught in the bank and came near tearing the front end off from the car. It was necessary to back up in order to release the fender from the railroad tracks.

A new style of fender will be tried this afternoon to see if any more satisfactory results can be obtained.

Warm weather was somewhat slow in getting here this year, but we knew it would come and prepared in advance for it. We have decided novelties in large flat fans, such as palms with fancy handles and large palms made of selected stock, plain and fancy Ning Poo's, which also make excellent brush broom holders, and common palms

BOERS HOLD CAPE COLONY

Burgers Gaining Recruits and Securing Fresh Horses.

SITUATION ALARMS ENGLAND.

Invading Force Numbers Between 7,000 and 10,000 Men—Operations of Genl. Sir Bindon Blood in the Northern Transvaal of No Avail.

London, June 24.—Whatever may have been the extent of the gradual attrition of the Boer forces and resources, and the consequent improvement of the British position in South Africa during the last month, the general situation has been so little altered since the end of May that reports mailed by English correspondents which are printed today may probably be taken to represent the condition of affairs now as accurately as when they left Cape Town. The correspondent of the Daily Mail at Cape Town sends a statement that is calculated to dispirit the most optimistic Englishman if it can be regarded as well founded. The letter was written about three weeks ago. The correspondent of the Mail says: "The Boer invasion of Cape Colony is developing in a rather serious manner. The Boer bands are getting recruits, and what is more, they are getting horses. They picked up no fewer than 500 at the remount camp near Colerberg less than a week ago. The invaders are swarming all over the eastern and midland districts. They number anywhere from 7,000 to 10,000 and are having a merry time. They wreck trains, kill colonists, and play havoc generally."

Recording the capture and sacking of Jamestown by the invaders, the correspondent says the amazing feature of the incident is that Jamestown is comparatively close to Abwal North, where there were 8,000 British troops and an abundance of guns and transport. He continues: "A glance at the map will show that a large portion of the colony is virtually in the hands of the enemy. From Dordrecht to Willemore and across to Kenhardt and on to Namaqualand the Boer is the man in possession. The slow progress of the campaign from the British point of view causes deep dissatisfaction. The authorities allow next to no news to be published, and it is only by interviewing recent arrivals from the front that one can get any real conception of what is taking place."

The correspondent of the Standard, writing from Pretoria, speaks in almost as gloomy a vein in regard to the operations of General Sir Bindon Blood in the northeast Transvaal. He says: "General Blood's movement cannot fairly be regarded as having proved in the main that the intention was altogether abortive."

Mad Mullah's Force Routed.
Aden, June 24.—The "Mad Mullah," after the recent repulse by Capt. MacNeill of his attack upon the British zabra, accidentally encountered the main British force of cavalry and mounted infantry which immediately attacked and routed him. The pursuit was continued throughout the night.

A hundred of the enemy were killed and the mullah and the sultan of Nur narrowly escaped capture. The British force lost seven killed and wounded.

Six Die in a Wreck.

Penzance, June 24.—There is now no doubt but that the captain, mate, and four men of the British bark Falkland, Captain Gracie, from Tacoma, Jan. 30, for Falmouth, which was wrecked off Bishop's Rock June 22, are drowned. The body of Mate Bateson was recovered in the afternoon.

CAILLES SURRENDERS.

Philippine General and His Force Take Oath of Allegiance.

Santa Cruz, Province of Laguna, Luzon Island, June 24.—General Cailles surrendered here today with 650 men and 500 rifles. Oaths of allegiance to the United States were administered to the former insurgents. Colonel Cailles, who had fled to the mountains with a portion of his command, also surrendered. Cailles did not sufficiently control the populace to bring in all the insurgents in his district. The proceedings of surrender were orderly.

Manila, June 24.—In consequence of the surrender of General Cailles, all the insurgent prisoners on Luzon Island will be released. Information from native sources confirms previous reports that General Malvar will soon surrender.

Players in Two Clashes.

New York, June 24.—From 2 o'clock in the afternoon until sunset players of the National and American leagues who are delegates to the Players' Association made the corridors of the Sturtevant house ring with their eloquence. Unfortunately for the edification of the general public they muffled a great deal of the flowery invective behind thick doors through which oozed occasional phrases from the most fervid addresses. The meeting was held for the purpose of electing officers, and there were distinct National League and American League factions, which ultimately will split the organization.

Senator Kyle Very Sick.
Aberdeen, S. D., June 24.—Senator James M. Kyle, who has been ill for several days, is in a very serious condition, and fears are entertained that he may not recover. Heart trouble is the cause of his illness. The attack is similar to the one that prostrated the senator at Cleveland two years ago.

Hay's Son Found Dead.

New Haven, Conn., June 24.—Adelbert S. Hay, son of Secretary Hay and former consul to Pretoria, was found dead on the sidewalk outside the New Haven house. Hay retired to his room at 1 o'clock, after spending the evening with friends, in apparently excellent spirits. At 2:30 a passer-by noticed the body of a prostrate man lying on the sidewalk on the College street side of the hotel. The night clerk of the hotel was immediately summoned and recognized the young man as the one who registered as Adelbert S. Hay. There was considerable excitement about the hotel and a large body of students and graduates who are here for the commencement exercises soon gathered. A number of Hay's former classmates at Yale positively identified the young man. It is believed that Hay became ill and went to the window for air, was overcome by a fit of dizziness and fell to the ground below.

The secretary, with his party arrived at 5:45 p. m., immediately entered a carriage and was driven to the residence of Seth Moseley, 36 Wall street. In the drawing-room of the house lay the remains of the dead son. Secretary Hay utterly collapsed and, prostrated by grief, took to his bed. Dr. Samuel D. Gilbert was summoned, and administered to the patient.

Kills Wife and Himself.

Great Barrington, Mass., June 24.—William Barnes killed his wife and then himself at his home on the road between Barrington and South Egremont. The bodies were found by a man who broke into the house. Mrs. Barnes' body was on a bed, while in a corner of the kitchen was Mr. Barnes' body, death having come to both through wounds in the throat. A razor and knife had been used. From the position of the bodies it appeared that Barnes killed his wife as she lay in bed. Then he had sat on the bed and cut his own throat. After bleeding profusely he had crawled to the kitchen and tried to prop himself up in one corner. The couple were last seen on Thursday.

The hollowness of the Spanish constitution has been demonstrated anew by the recent elections which from the first cortes the young king will face.

THE FIRE RECORD.

Firemen Have Hard Fight.

Benton Harbor, Mich., June 24.—Fire swept out the main buildings of the lumber yards of Peters Brothers' Lumber Company in the west side of the ship canal. It was caused by the explosion of a lime kiln on the west end of the main buildings. The fire companies called for help and the St. Joseph fire companies went to the scene and threw several large streams into the bed of flames. The center of the yards, including all buildings, were burned to the ground. Lumber on the outer edges of the yards was saved. It is estimated that about 5,000,000 feet of lumber was burned, valued at $130,000.

Whisky Causes Fatal Fire.

Logansport, Ind., June 24.—While repairing a drawbar on a Vandalia freight car which was loaded with whisky Lawrence Beeson was killed. William Eskins was fatally and Calvin Neff and John Moore were dangerously injured. A spark from the well ignited a barrel of whisky and explosion and fire followed. Eskins was literally cooked to death. Neff and Moore jumped into the canal with their clothing on fire and were rescued just in time to prevent death by drowning.

Negro Rescued by Troops.

Houston Texas, June 24.—The special train bearing troops from Trinity arrived here riddled with bullets. The cavalry arrived at Tinty at 2 a. m., and at once relieved the siege of the light guard, who were kept in a school-house, with an armed mob forming a cordon around it. The beleaguered soldiers marched back to the train with the negro, Levy Spencer, in their care, and boarded it without molestation, but as the train pulled out the mob fired several volleys at the train. The soldiers returned the fire and reported at least three members of the mob hit. The negro was taken to the penitentiary at Huntsville for safe-keeping and the soldiers returned home.

Rain of Frogs Perplexes.

Albion, N. Y., June 24.—The town of Knowles was treated to a rain of frogs during a fierce thunderstorm. A space about forty rods long by twenty wide was found to be covered to a depth of several inches with small but perfectly formed frogs. Not only was the ground covered, but cisterns and rain barrels were well supplied. Some persons predict a repetition of the plagues mentioned in the Bible. Every one is greatly mystified and many theories have been advanced. In the meantime the frogs are vainly trying to find hiding places from the clickers, which regard this as a special banquet for their benefit.

Famine in a Boy's Home.

New York, June 24.—For seven days the 161 inmates of the Brooklyn Truants' home, along Jamaica avenue and Euenfield street, Brooklyn, have been living on molasses and bread. This diet was once in a while varied with a dinner of bread and milk, and then again with syrup and milk and bread. Not a potato or bit of meat did they eat during that period. The cook had a vacation, and for fourteen days she cooked no food for the lads. The famishing period was caused by a delay in sending supplies from the central school board in Manhattan.

Horses Stricken by Grip.

New York, June 24.—There is a marked increase in the number of horses in this city suffering from some malady which veterinary surgeons believe to be the grip. The surgeons in the New York veterinary hospital and all of the employees of that institution have been kept busy night and day attending to the sufferers from this new disease. Thus far the strange malady has not proved fatal, although reports indicate that it is spreading throughout the country.

Two Young Men Drowned.

St. Joseph, Mich., June 24.—The largest crowd of the season visited the St. Joseph Gretna Green yesterday. There were many excursions, and the Chicago crowd was immense. One sad incident, however, spoiled the pleasure of the Chicago people. Two young men who had accompanied the morning excursion from Chicago were drowned in the river at the foot of Water street at 2 o'clock. They were Michael Lenowuski and Theodore Michaelski, both 23 years.

Husband Demands Apology.

Richmond, Va., June 24.—Because Joseph McSparran, aged 19, would not apologize for remarks alleged to have been made about C. E. Anderson's wife, the two men came to blows early this morning, and Anderson bit off two fingers of McSparran and an ear.

PENNSYLVANIA FRANCHISE STEAL.

We have referred briefly in these columns to the "Franchise Steal," but a resume of editorials in eastern papers is necessary to give a complete history of the case.

Only one paper that we have noticed gives favorable opinions in its editorial columns of the action of the state legislature, and that is Sen. Quay's organ, the Philadelphia Inquirer.

The history of the bill is as follows: The bill was introduced in the senate the day before Decoration Day; during that day the bill was referred to a committee, favorably reported by the committee and given the first reading. This is record time for a bill which is so important to the second largest state in the union in point of population. The senate was in session on the national holiday, Decoration Day, something very rare, is not unprecedented, for congress and state assemblies are prone to take all the holidays they are entitled to, with a few extra thrown in for good measure. On Friday, just forty-three hours after the introduction of the bill, it was passed by a vote of 32 to 6.

For the first time during the session the house assembled on the following Monday and railroaded the bill to its first reading, and on Wednesday it was passed by a vote of 151 to 31.

Now one of two things are probable, either the legislators were bought body and soul by promoters and capitalists, or they expected to become interested in the franchises which were to be given away. Subsequent developments prove the latter to be the true cause of such persistently hurried action; for when the bill was signed by the governor just one week after it was first heard of, every applicant for franchises were either assemblymen or related to them. Sen. Quay's own son being the most interested man on the occasion.

Two bombshells were dropped in the legislature previous to the signature of the bill by the governor: at a public function a letter from John Wanamaker was handed to Mayor Ashbridge; of Philadelphia, which he destroyed without reading; the copy of the letter shows it to be an offer of $2,500,000 for the franchises. In question for that city. A few hours later an Eastern syndicate offered $5,000,000 for the same franchises, both offers were ignored and privileges were given away which might have brought relief from taxation to all the inhabitants if only the proper motive had prevailed. If these offers had been accepted it would have meant two dollars to every man, woman and child in Philadelphia in taxes saved.

Mayor Ashbridge has set a new and rapid pace for public wrong; never since the carpet bag government of the south after the war have such methods prevailed.

We may sneer at freak legislation and populist ideas, but they are harmless, and insignificant when compared to positive and intentional wrong doing.

AMERICAN MEAT ABROAD.

Many foreign countries have restrictions which make it difficult for American packers to compete in the question of meats with home producers; this is especially true of Germany. In the countries where the laws allow the entire of our meats on practically the same basis of inspection with domestic meats, the officials frequently allow our meat to remain at the docks weeks sometimes before inspecting.

Naturally the condition of our product has deteriorated during that time, and then goes up the cry that American meat is of inferior quality and the inspection reports seem to verify the charge.

Whether this is premeditated or not it works an injustice to our packers, and our foreign ministers will do well to follow the example of Mr. McCormick of Chicago, consul to Austria, who has made a thorough investigation and has succeeded in getting the Austrians to treat American meats more fairly.

There is no doubting the fact that the foreigner is becoming fearful of his American competitor and it will be a bitter experience for him to see the supremacy he has enjoyed so long gradually slipping away from him.

We meanwhile must keep up to the highest standard our products, and make every effort possible to bring before European customers the character and price of American made goods.

Not since the World's Fair in Chicago has there been in America an enterprise or exhibition which has called forth more praise from artists than the general scheme and execution at Buffalo. "Fidelity of arrangement and fantasy in construction" are the Exposition's cardinal merits."

Science is coming to the help of the farmer in the improvement of his wheat. Minnesota is carrying on experiments which will increase the value of the wheat crop of the west by $22,000,000. Agricultural experiment stations are breeding a new wheat which will increase the yield two or three bushels to the acre.

A new industry has developed in Oregon unlike that of any in the world outside of Germany. It is the extracting of oil from pine needles and the utilizing of the needles for fiber in weaving of fabrics. Both are conducive to sleep and quieting in nervous diseases.

The ban on bookmakers at the Derby Saturday in Chicago by virtue of Mayor Harrison and Chief O'Neill augurs well for the anti-vice league of that Windy city. Joe Kipley can now see how he might have won respect and confidence had he the inclination and ability.

The passage of Hell Gate by the giant battleship Massachusetts proves that we must help out Nature in protecting the inner harbor of New York from foreign war ships.

The season of anxiety for pupils is passing and the season of anxiety for teachers has begun. Vide Chicago school board recommendations.

We imagine the Kaiser laughing up his sleeve at the domestic infidelities of the Queen of Holland and her consort.

STATE PRESS COMMENT.

Whitewater Register: "It is generally agreed that the superintendents for the blind and deaf were removed because the La Follette administration needed the places to give to their friends. So ably had Mr. Bliss and Mr. Swiler filled their places that, even when the democrats, hungry from being kept for years from the crib, went into control at Madison, these gentlemen held their places. The responsibility of the state unfortunates in our institutions is so great that we would suppose the governor would hesitate to put men at the head of them whose only qualification is that they have assisted in electing an executive, or furthering his pet 'reform.'"

Ban Claire Leader: Gov. La Follette may have cogent reasons for discharging so many old soldiers from the capitol and putting young men in their places. The Grand Army men are feeling dissatisfied and are drawing comparisons between the course pursued by the governor and the practices of his predecessors. Upham and Scofield, who invariably gave old soldiers the preference whenever they could.

Hudson Star-Times: "Trained" men seem desirable in Wisconsin public offices these days, particularly if they "trained" with the "reformers."

Waukesha Dispatch: The apparent ease with which the State Board of Control lends itself to his excellency's peculiar ideas of reform is also attracting considerable comment.

BIG FOURTH OF JULY EVENT.

Caledonian Games at the Fair Grounds Create Interest

The Caledonian society will give the only Fourth of July celebration that Janesville will see this year. Their fifteenth annual games will be held at the Fair Ground on July 4, and the program as now arranged will be the most extensive and the best of any attempted by this society in years. The fact that Janesville's celebration for Independence day has been declared off for this year has been an extra incentive to the Scottish society to furnish an entertainment which will draw people from all about the country. The program consists of games of all sorts, wrestling, bag punching and of Indian club swinging and pipers will also be in attendance.

Admission to the grounds will be 25 cents; children under 12, 10 cents. A dance will be given in the evening at Armory hall over the Caledonian rooms.

Fits, Convulsions and Stomach Trouble

Cured in Baby of Only 9 Months.

For about four months my baby had frequent convulsions. His stomach was very bad and his food did not agree with him at all. I consulted with doctors and tried medicines but he grew worse daily. At last I took him to Prof. Ripken. After taking eight treatments and following his advice, my baby is now all right. It has been over four weeks since he had a convulsion and I feel sure he will not have any more.

MANY RUMORS NONE RELIABLE

HELEN FIFIELD IS STILL AMONG THE MISSING.

The Search for Her Is Being Kept Up
Without Intermission—Chief Hogan and Judge Fifield Again Return to the Windy City—Reward of $100 Is Offered.

Although numerous rumors have been circulated about the city that the family knew of the whereabouts of Miss Helen Fifield, they deny that there is any truth in them. Thousands of stories have been circulated about her that anyone acquainted with the young lady would know they were stated by someone looking for notoriety and without the least particle of regard for the feelings of her family and friends.

The fact of the matter is that since the young woman supposed to have been Miss Fifield left the Home Hotel on Washington street no trace of her has been found. She has disappeared as completely as if the ground had opened and swallowed her up.

Search Is Kept Up
The search has been kept up without intermission since Thursday night by policemen, detectives, reporters, relatives and friends. If she is still in Chicago it would seem that she must soon be located. The idea is fast gaining ground among her friends, that she has left Chicago and gone on east and will be found in Boston or some other eastern city.

Chief Hogan came home Sunday morning on the paper train and returned to Chicago again last night to continue the search. James S. Fifield, an uncle of the missing girl went back with him and will do what he can to aid in the search.

Chicago is a big city and although an army of people are looking for the girl she could easily be kept out of sight and it would be a long time before she could be located.

Reward of $100 Offered
A reward of $100 was offered Saturday for any creditable information as to the whereabouts of the young lady. Every depot in Chicago has been visited and descriptions of the girl left with instructions to detain her if she should attempt to buy a ticket or get on a train.

Chief Hogan denies that he told the reporters that he thought that the girl had eloped with Sam Warner of Madison and says that the story was made from whole cloth.

A report that she was to be married Saturday night to a railroad man in Milwaukee, was investigated Saturday afternoon by Sheriff Maltress and found to be without foundation.

She Is Not in Boston
Last night a report was freely circulated about the town that she had been located with her relatives in Boston. This report was found to have started from a telegram sent by a Chicago paper asking for the names of her relatives in Boston.

She was reported to have been seen at the Hotel Morrison Saturday afternoon. The Chicago Tribune in speaking of it says:

"If the woman seen at the Morrison Hotel on Saturday afternoon by a bell boy was Miss Helen Fifield, the young woman who disappeared from her home in Janesville, Wis., on Thursday morning, she succeeded in concealing her whereabouts as completely as she did when she left the Home Hotel in Washington street. No one has been found who saw her after she left the Morrison."

Woman to Find a Woman
Lieutenant McSweeney of the Central station at Chicago is of the opinion that it will take a woman to find Miss Fifield.

"If I were not a lieutenant I would disguise myself as a woman and take up the search for Miss Fifield," said the lieutenant.

"A woman can go where a man cannot. It is my opinion that the missing girl may be found in one of the small hospitals."

The theory of Lieutenant McSweeney is based on the belief of the relatives of Miss Fifield that she was suffering from temporary derangement of her mind when she departed from home.

No matter what the reason for leaving her home was, she has succeeded so far in eluding all of her pursuers. It would seem that if she was in her right mind she would at least notify her parents and let them know she was alive.

The Municipal Court

Louis O'Rourke, William Gillen and Martin Gagan were a trio that were brought before Judge Fifield this morning by Officers John and Sam Brown on the charge of being drunk and disorderly. They all pleaded guilty to the charge. O'Rourke was given four days in jail and a fine of $4.30 or six additional days. William Gillen was punished by a fine of $3.30 or six days. Martin Gagan was given six days in jail or a fine of $6.60.

The case of Eugene Darby of Beloit accused horse stealing was called at four o'clock. The defense will probably try to prove that he is insane.

Important Meeting of Lodge No 55
The regular communication of Janesville Lodge No. 55, F. & A. M., will be held this evening at 7:30 o'clock. All members are urged to be present.

JACK LUTZ HAD A NARROW ESCAPE

Missed His Footing While Stepping onto an Engine and Was Dragged Along.

Jack Lutz, son of Alderman August Lutz, employed by the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad as a switchman, missed his footing this afternoon while attempting to step onto the running board of the engine and was dragged some distance before the engine could be stopped. He was picked up and taken into the St. Paul roundhouse where his shoe was cut off. It was found that his right leg was badly bruised from the ankle to the knee, but it was thought that no bones were broken.

He was taken on the engine to the St. Paul passenger station and from there conveyed to his home at 352 South Academy street by the patrol wagon, where Dr. Joe Whiting, the company's physician attended him. He seemed to be in great pain from his injuries and will probably be laid up for some time.

RINGLING BROS. HERE JULY 30

Well Known Circus Following the Buffalo Bill Show to Janesville One Week Later.

Ringling Bros.' circus will show in Janesville on July 30, the week following Buffalo Bill's Wild West. Their advance man was in the city yesterday making arrangements for their appearance and securing bill board space.

The fact that these well-known shows are to appear in the city within a short time of each other would look as if they were bucking one another.

The Pawnee Bill Wild West show having been here a short time ago is liable to hurt the attendance at Buffalo Bill's show.

WOMAN AT DISADVANTAGE.

Makes Mistakes Through Limited Knowledge of Social Geography.

Woman is always more or less at a disadvantage. She is seldom absolutely sure of her footing. The world is full of unsuspected quicksands into which she may fall through a limited knowledge of social geography. She has a keen sense of her limitations and makes it her first business to hide them. Often she is unsuccessful, for where one can hide her weaknesses beneath a pleasant manner and a smiling exterior, a dozen choose a method which but accentuates what they so earnestly try to hide. And the world has an unpleasant little knack of judging by one's good points. When all is said and done, woman's failings, as a rule, are trivial and possess far more importance in her own eyes than in the formation of any one else. Her faults are more often of the head than of the heart; of inexperience rather than of thoughtlessness and there's usually a good excuse for each little weakness. It's the fancy nowadays to sneer—just a little—at our sex. Some of us openly declare that we wish it, even while keeping silent. Yet to be a woman is a privilege for which we should return thanks, if we ever return thanks for anything. If our lot seems harder than that of our brother, it has compensations that outweigh the grief that must sooner or later come to all of us. The woman who, in admiration of her masculine relatives is led to ape them in manner or dress, commits the greatest mistakes of her life and one she will assuredly regret.

THAT GAME OF EUCHRE.

We were great friends—Hughes, Mason, Bunn and I, all of the same fraternity. All are gone but myself. Hughes died three years ago—he was my especial partner and chum—while Mason and Bunn died within a week of each other, both of typhoid fever.

I dreamed last night that I wandered up into the chapter hall for some reason or other and, having nothing else to do, sat down at the little table in the anteroom, shuffled the cards idly for awhile and then commenced playing solitaire. It was rather late at night, but the one flickering gas jet I had lighted showed me the well known details of the old hall as distinctly as in reality.

I had become deeply absorbed in the game, as solitaire can absorb a rather solitary man, when all at once I seemed to be conscious of other presences at the table besides myself. I glanced up, and there opposite me, in the very seat where he had played partners with me a hundred times or more, sat Hughes! I was somewhat startled, but not especially surprised, and it seemed the most natural thing in the world, on looking to my right and left, to behold Mason and Bunn in their accustomed places. Their faces were calm and expressionless, as they always were at the card table—splendid players, both of them, always so quiet and self contained that you could judge nothing from their looks of how their luck was going. But Hughes, who was more like myself in temperament, smiled at me and said:

"Well, old fellow, what's the game?" "Euchre," I replied calmly, and, gathering up the cards, I shuffled and dealt them, turning up hearts as trumps. The others looked at their hands in silence, but I regarded mine with jubilant satisfaction, for every card was a heart, with the left bower and ace at the top.

All passed. "Give me your best, Tom, and I'll go it alone," exclaimed I in confident tones, but Hughes' face was anxious as he slid a card across the board to me, and he said in a low tone:

"Be careful, Will. You are playing against death!"

But when I looked at the card and found it was the right bower my glee quite overpowered the impression intended by his warning.

"Come on, then," I laughed. "I'll show old skull and crossbones a good game." But my grim antagonists said never a word in reply. They sat there silently, holding their cards in that prim, methodical way I remembered so well as characteristic of them.

Mason lead with a club, Bunn followed, suit, and I smiled triumphantly as I trumped the trick.

"If that's the way his nibs of the white horse puts up his game," I remarked sarcastically as I led with a low trump, "I'll engage to give him a few lessons."

But my laughter soon changed as I saw the slip I had made, for Mason put on the nine and Bunn the queen of hearts. Then I braced up, and when Bunn lead with a diamond I raked in the trick with a flourish. Still Hughes was watching me anxiously from across the small table.

"Now," thought I, "I will draw that joker, if either of those fellows have it, after which the game is mine."

Accordingly, with well feigned diffidence, I led with my left bower. But my acting was changed to reality when Bunn dropped upon it the right bower. My astonishment knew no bounds, for I could have sworn that Hughes had given that very card to me. I was about to appeal to him, but on looking across the table I saw, to my surprise, that his place was vacant.

Still, I thought, I have often made mistakes in sizing up my cards, and as the game is mine anyway I'll say nothing about it, but play it out pluckily.

Bunn led with a spade—the ace—and somehow, as my eyes fell upon that ominous sign, my heart came up into my mouth. I laid my ace of hearts upon his card, but had I played my own heart it could not have been with more fear and trembling. Then, breathless and without raising my eyes from the table, I awaited Mason's last card.

Suddenly a shout of gendish laughter froze my blood, and the cold perspiration started from my every pore, for as the card covered mine I saw it was the joker—a grinning death's head! I had lost. I started from my seat, but my antagonists, changed in form and feature to grinning skeletons, held me back. I gasped and tried to shriek—and then awoke!

I found myself sitting up in bed, wet with sweat and my heart beating violently. It is a trifle affected anyway, and I don't care to have any more such dreams. Well, it's all nonsense being afraid of a dream, and if I have a whim I may as well gratify it as fidget around and not sleep any tonight. So after supper I'll walk down to the hall and smoke a cigar there.

[Extract From the W— Courier.] William Hooker died suddenly last night of heart disease. He was found sitting at a card table and had evidently just finished a game of euchre. Three other chairs were at the table, but as no one was known to have been with him he had probably been playing the other hands as well as his own.

Study of Life. Our lives are universally shortened by our ignorance. In attaining complete knowledge of our own natures and of the natures of surrounding things—in ascertaining the conditions of existence to which we must conform and in discovering means of conforming to them under all variations of seasons and circumstances—we have abundant scope for intellectual progress.—Exchange.

NEW NATIONAL PARK

That Is to Include the Famous Leech Lake in Minnesota.

The national government has been urged to favorably consider the proposition to create a grand national park at Leech lake, about the headwaters of the Mississippi river, in Minnesota, and pre-empting the necessary lands before the destruction of trees has marred their natural beauty. Upon this tract of land are tribes of Chippewa Indians, numbering in all 1,500. It is proposed that the Indians be left where they are instead of being driven away to foreign reservations. They are a unique and for the most part peaceful people, and would serve as valuable guides to tourists and fishermen. Already they are employed in industries which are civilizing forces. Among these is lacemaking. Bishop Whipple, who has labored among the Indians of Minnesota for forty years, in 1890 obtained the assistance of Miss Sybil Carter, who, by nursing in hospitals, teaching in missions and making herself generally useful to the red man, finally started to teach them to make lace. This industry has grown to large proportions, and beautiful bedspreads have been purchased at high figures by wealthy women. Here, too, were made the beautiful lace lampshades, tea-cloths and bedspreads which recently took a prize in Paris. Miss Carter even sells this Indian lace in Honolulu. And the game! In the forest one finds moose, caribou, deer, bears, elk, and wolves, besides small game, as foxes, mink, otter and squirrels. Wild fowl, too, abound and every variety of duck, quail, woodcock and snipe that can satisfy the hunter's heart. The game and fish have been but little disturbed by the Indians, who only kill sufficient for their daily food. Success is anticipated as regards this park project. Its only opponents are lumbermen.

A TOWN UNDERMINED.

When Buildings Sink They Are Elevated on Jack-screws and Rest.

The remarkable subsidences which have often occurred in and around the town of Northwich, in Cheshire, England, form the subject of a paper by T. Ward, recently issued by the Institution of Mining Engineers. The subsidences are chiefly due to mining in the upper bed of rock salt and the too rapid removal of brine by means of modern pumps. In a natural condition the water in or on the salt beds becomes saturated with salt and then ceases to dissolve it, but now the brine is continually pumped up in immense quantities, and the fresh water which flows to take its place dissolves the salt pillars which have supported the roof and over-lying strata, with the result that there is a depression toward each pumping center. In almost every case the mines in the upper bed of rock salt are destroyed by water rapidly eroding the salt pillars in this way. Another cause of subsidence is the pumping of brine from off the rockhead; that is, the surface of the upper bed of rock salt. These are by far the most serious and widespread, and it is from them that the town of Northwich suffers so much damage. Owing to the subsidences, which show themselves first by small cracks in the buildings and in doors and windows refusing to shut, a system of framework buildings has been allowed, so that when a building sinks it can be lifted by screw-jacks and put back to its original position. By degrees the town is becoming one of framework buildings, and will, for England, be unique in this respect.—Nature.
